

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates. The cable ownership cap is a crucial element of our democratic media, and it should not be weakened.

30% of a nation of over 200,000,000 people should be enough for anybody who doesn't have designs on becoming a monopoly.

If you allow the re/de-regulation, soon our flag will fly for the grand ole USMA: United States of Microsoft & AOL. And that's not a country I would want to live in.
